

The Journal of ECONOMIC LITERATURE

John Pencavel, Editor

Drucilla Ekwurzel, Alexander J. Field, Frank A. Wolak, Associate Editors
Mary Kay Akerman, Assistant Editor; Asatoshi Maeshiro, Editorial Consultant

BOARD OF EDITORS

Anthony B. Atkinson
Alan J. Auerbach
Charles C. Brown
Anne C. Case
Stephen G. Cecchetti
Jo Anna Gray

Peter W. Howitt
Richard C. Marston
Thomas Mayer
John McMillan
Robert A. Pollak
Peter C. Reiss

John G. Riley
John E. Roemer
Harvey S. Rosen
Frederic M. Scherer
Alan C. Stockman
John K. Whitaker

VOLUME XXXIII

December 1995

NUMBER 4

OKABE, MITSUAKI, ed. The structure of the Japanese economy: Changes on the domestic and international fronts. Studies in the Modern Japanese Economy. New York: St. Martin's Press, 1995. Pp. xvi, 470. $49.95. ISBN 0-312-12219-5.

JEL 95-1798

Fifteen papers illustrate distinctive traditional structural features of the Japanese economy and examine their changes in recent years, brought about by forces such as deregulation, accumulation of assets, the aging of the population, and internationalization. Papers focus on the Japanese firm and the labor market; consumption, saving, investment, and growth; the financial markets, monetary policy, and the policy institutions; and international economic relations. Okabe is Professor in the Faculty of Policy Management at Keio University. Index.